

Mini Biography Donna Hologram Portrait Playboy

Tall (5' 10"), buxom and voluptuous brunette beauty Donna Edmondson was born on February 1, 1966 in Greensboro, North Carolina. Donna played first base on her high school softball team. She attended the University of North Carolina and received a real estate license.

On a whim Edmondson sent several photos of herself to "Playboy" magazine. Donna was chosen by "Playboy" to be their Playmate of the Month in the November, 1986 issue of the popular men's magazine. She was named Playmate of the Year in 1987. Edmondson was the subject of much controversy when it was revealed in her "Playboy" profile that she was still a virgin when she posed nude for her pictorial: Joan Rivers made a big deal out of the issue and one caller on Larry King's talk show accused her of not being religious because she displayed her body naked in "Playboy."

Moreover, Donna traveled all over the country as a Playmate of the Year; she toured 54 cities in 52 days. Edmondson went on to be featured in a few "Playboy" videos and posed for a handful of "Playboy" newsstand special editions. Donna eventually took a job as a tax accountant and got married. She appears as a guest at the occasional Glamourcon. Edmondson still lives in her hometown of Greensboro, North Carolina with her husband and three children.
